Dear Friends:

Welcome to the MotorCities National Heritage Area Partnership 2019 Annual Report. This past year was full of accomplishment for us, the culmination of many years of work on a number of key projects.

It's always important to thank you, our continually-growing number of supporters, whether you're a partner, member, sponsor or volunteer, for everything you've done during the past year to help us fulfill our mission of promoting and preserving Michigan's rich automotive and labor history. With your help, MotorCities makes a profound impact throughout all 16 counties of the National Heritage Area.

You can read more in this report about our many accomplishments, like the following:

- Getting the first nine of our long-awaited highway signs in the ground;
• Breaking ground for the Fort Street Bridge Interpretive Park in southwest Detroit;
• Awarding our first-ever mini-grants, providing support up to $1,500 to short-term, high impact projects;
• Hosting the spring meeting of the Alliance of National Heritage Areas, an opportunity to showcase our region's automotive history and partnerships with days focusing on Detroit, Dearborn and Flint;
• Working with seven Detroit area-based tour operators to establish a series of MotorCities-branded automotive tour experiences;
• Launching our Speakers Bureau to bring more awareness of MotorCities and automotive history to the region.

In 2020, our focus area is education, and we are working hard to bring new education programs to our National Heritage Area, while supporting key initiatives via our grant awards.

We are making progress on so many fronts, and we thank you for all you do on behalf of MotorCities. Let's take that positive momentum and keep moving forward. Your support is imperative as we do the important work of preserving and promoting our unique automotive and labor heritage!

Lansing Mayor Andy Schor welcomes MotorCities board, members and friends to his city for the 2019 Annual Meeting at the R.E. Olds Transportation Museum.

9 Highway Signs Installed Around Lansing, Flint and Detroit

Drivers in metro Detroit, as well as the Flint and Lansing areas, are noticing something new along the highways – those familiar brown National Park Service signs with a message welcoming them to the MotorCities National Heritage Area! The first nine signs were installed in November and December 2019 and are the culmination of many years of work with the Michigan Department of Transportation.

You can find the signs at the following locations:

- Southbound I-75 before the Mt. Morris exit north of Flint;
- Eastbound I-69 near Lansing Road northeast of Lansing;
- Eastbound I-96 near the I-69 interchange northwest of Lansing;
- Eastbound I-96 near the US 127 interchange southeast of Lansing;
- Westbound I-96 near the US 127 interchange southeast of Lansing;
- Westbound I-94 before the M-59 exit in Chesterfield Twp. (pictured);
- Eastbound I-96 on the ramp to southbound I-75 in Detroit
- Northbound I-75 on the ramp to westbound I-96 in Detroit;
- Northbound I-75 near Monroe-Wayne County border.

Six more signs will be installed to complete the 15 that make up the first phase of MotorCities’ highway sign rollout, so stay tuned for additional installations coming soon near Kalamazoo, Jackson, and Ypsilanti.

Ground Broken for the Fort Street Bridge Interpretive Park

Congresswomen Debbie Dingell and Rashida Tlaib join MotorCities Executive Director Shawn Pomaville-Size and representatives from the Fort-Rouge Gateway Coalition (FRoG) put shovels in the ground at the site of what will soon be the Fort Street Bridge Interpretive Park in southwest Detroit.

On October 9, 2019, MotorCities staff and board members joined Congresswomen Debbie Dingell and Rashida Tlaib, our partners in the Fort-Rouge Gateway Coalition (FRoG), and Friends of the Rouge to break ground for the new Fort Street Bridge Interpretive Park, located at the foot of the Fort Street Bridge in southwest Detroit.

On March 7, 1932, during the Great Depression, auto workers organized a march from Detroit to the Ford Rouge Factory in Dearborn. Known as the Ford Hunger March, the event is one of the most significant events leading to the creation of the United Auto Workers union.

MotorCities, the University of Michigan-Dearborn, City of Detroit, City of Dearborn, Marathon Petroleum Co. LP, Michigan Department of Transportation, United Auto Workers Local 600, Friends of the Rouge, Friends of the Detroit River, various neighborhood block groups, PEA Inc. and others collaborated to build this park.

Michigan Auto Heritage Day and Awards of Excellence

On October 30, MotorCities presented its 2019 Awards of Excellence during its sixth annual Michigan Auto Heritage Day event at the State Capitol Building. The awards recognize organizations or individuals who have delivered outstanding projects in the areas of auto or labor heritage tourism, education/ interpretation and revitalization.

The 2019 Milestone Award went to U.S. Senator Debbie Stabenow for her leadership that lifted the cap on the amount of appropriations that MotorCities can accept, paving the way for the organization to continue normal operations for four more years.

The 2019 Awards of Excellence went to the following:

- In the revitalization category, the winner was the Cherry Hill Veterans Dormitory, restored by the Partnership for the Arts and Humanities of Canton;
- In the education and interpretation category, the winner was SAE International’s Mobility History Committee.
- In the heritage tourism category, the winner was Back to the Bricks of Flint.

MotorCities Hosts the Alliance of National Heritage Areas

As part of the Alliance of National Heritage Areas’ (ANHA) Spring Meeting hosted by MotorCities, staff from National Heritage Areas around the country had the opportunity to witness

Terry Rhadigan, Executive Director, Communications Operations and Corporate Giving for General Motors, welcomes staff from National Heritage Areas from across the country to the GMRenCen on the first day of the Association of National Heritage Areas (ANHA) Spring Meeting in Detroit.

our region's automotive and labor history first hand, while learning about revitalization projects and partnerships with days focusing on Detroit, Dearborn and Flint.

MotorCities-Branded Tours Launched

MotorCities partnered with seven metro Detroit tour operators to offer a series of auto-themed historical tours. The experiences included tours in a Ford Model A, on a bicycle, on a bus, and on a kayak in the Detroit River, along with standard walking tours. Collectively, the tours reached more than 400 people in its inaugural season.

A Ford Model A used by Antique Touring Company, one of MotorCities new partners, to provide their unique auto heritage tour experience, entitled "From Tinkers to Titans in the Auto Age."

Speakers Bureau Gets Underway

MotorCities launched a Speakers Bureau in 2019, a resource to promote awareness of automotive and labor history, as well as provide an overview about our organization and its important work. The offerings include 21 unique presentations offered by seven different presenters.

Every Kid Outdoors Program Continues at Historic Fort Wayne

Students learn about how U.S. Army soldiers trained at Historic Fort Wayne during Every Kid Outdoors week in May.

MotorCities joined the Detroit Parks and Recreation Department, Detroit Public Schools Community District, the Historic Fort Wayne Coalition and more than 20 other partners to present the fourth annual Every Kid Outdoors program at Historic Fort Wayne in southwest Detroit in May. More than 1,000 fourth graders participated in the program.

2019 Grant Highlights

Packard Motor Car Foundation in Shelby Township: Received a Challenge Grant supporting the revitalization of the Packing Proving Grounds (PPG) site, including the Packard Museum and an Arsenal of Democracy Museum.

R.E. Olds Transportation Museum in Lansing: Stabilized the building by completing Phase 2 of its roof replacement project.

The following organizations were among the nine projects receiving MotorCities' first mini grants, awards up to $1,500:

Northville Historical Society: Received two grants funding a new information kiosk in Mill Race Village and interactive Inter Urban display.

Oakland County Pioneer Historical Society in Pontiac: Supported the preservation of an original Standard Vehicle carriage.

Pontiac Transportation Museum: Increased public awareness by supporting upgrades to the organization's website.

Saline Area Historical Society: Supported lighting improvements and building renovations for their Oldsmobile display at Rentschler Farms.

Services to Enhance Potential of Westland: Supported a month-long exhibit of art pieces created by young people with disabilities at Detroit's Peace Gallery to celebrate Michigan's rich automotive history.

The artists from the Services to Enhance Potential (STEP) exhibit at the Peace Gallery in Detroit.
